COVID-19 Note
The COVID-19 pandemic continues to present challenges related to health concerns and international travel. UCEAP has been updating their website's Coronavirus Notice with up-to-date information on program cancellations for the 2021-2022 cycle. All programs listed in this Advising Notes document are scheduled to proceed at this time, and UCEAP will inform campus offices if there are any updates.

Updated Nov. 2020

Objective of the Advising Notes Document
This document is an advising tool written by a Berkeley Study Abroad adviser to review program specific details that may impact a student’s decision to apply for a UCEAP program. The document is not a summary of eligibility requirements, academic, housing, application and other logistical details freely available to students on the UCEAP and BSA websites. If any concerns you have are not addressed on the UCEAP website or in the Advising Notes document, please contact the BSA adviser for this program.

Host Universities

UCEAP applicants can study at one of many prestigious partner universities in New Zealand.

Partner Institutions

- University of Auckland
- University of Otago (NZ semester 2 or UC fall only)
- Victoria University of Wellington
- Massey University (Wellington campus only- usually Arts-based education)
- University of Waikato
- NEW! University of Canterbury

What are my chances being selected to the host university I apply to?

In general, if the student is fully qualified, turn in a complete and thoughtful application by the deadline, their chances for being selected into their UCEAP program of choice are likely. However, some program locations in New Zealand have capacity constraints. University of Otago, Auckland Univ. and Victoria Univ. of Wellington have limited spaces due to the nature of the exchange agreement with the University of California system. It is also a reason why Univ. of Otago is only offered for the UC fall term. For the 2021-22 academic year, UC Berkeley was granted 2 spaces at Otago, 2 spaces at Auckland, and 1 space at Victoria.

If UCEAP is unable to offer a spot in the qualified applicant’s preferred location due to space limitations, it is likely that you will be offered a spot at an alternative New Zealand location. We encourage students to keep an open mind about their host university in New Zealand.

How do I choose between host institutions?

Choosing between the host universities in New Zealand will require some research. All host institutions have a range of disciplines and academic, co-curricular and extra-curricular opportunities to choose from. Like the research you conducted when applying to the UC system, each university will also differ in size, location and campus culture. To assist with this, please see the Guide to New Zealand Universities in the Resources section above.

We recommend that you carefully consider the following aspects of your host institution.

- Academic fit: It is important that you think about whether the host university you are interested in are a good match for your academic interests. Select host universities may have course restrictions for exchange students, so please examine those carefully choosing a university.
- Special Opportunities: internships, student groups, leadership programs may be unique to specific institutions
- Non-academic concerns: geographical preference, weather, relatives who live in a certain city, employment opportunities, etc.

Nomination Timeline and Terminology

The UCEAP application goes through multiple steps. Students are “nominated” for the program by campus. The application is also reviewed by UCEAP systemwide office in Goleta, CA and then at our UC Student Center in Melbourne, Australia before they are forwarded and “referred” to the respective host institution in New Zealand. After students complete all necessary predeparture paperwork and procedures, their status will be changed to “Placed.”

Academics
Flexibility is important. Keep in mind that the courses you find in the MyEAP Course Catalog or on the host university’s web site may not be offered the semester(s) you will be abroad. Oftentimes you will not have concrete information about what courses will be offered until a couple months before departure or even until upon arrival in New Zealand. Be prepared for the possibility that you will have to modify your plans.

How many courses/units will I take? Students are required to take a minimum of 14 units each semester. The usual course load is about four classes per semester, but this can vary by university and the specific courses selected.

Do New Zealand universities have “Fall” and “Spring” semesters? When researching courses on the host university web sites, be aware that “Semester 1” is the equivalent of Berkeley’s spring semester and “Semester 2” is equivalent to fall.

Which courses will transfer as upper/lower division? First year New Zealand courses (usually marked as 100 or 1000 level courses) are considered lower-division by UC, while second and third year courses (usually marked as 200/300 or 2000/3000 level courses) will translate as upper-division.

Third year courses are considered to be equivalent to fourth-year advanced courses at UC or even first-year graduate coursework in the US. Because these courses will generally require more previous knowledge than those at UC, if you are interested in taking a third year course, we recommend that you consult first with the UC Study Center Faculty Adviser in Australia whom you will interact with prior to departure and meet at the on-site orientation.

Use the following Glossary of Academic Terms to make your course search on the host university web sites easier.
